What a wonderful Mom you were! You stayed at home to care for us... every day delicious odors of cookies, dinner or just the clean smell of clothes fresh off the line greeted us after school (in the winter, clothes "stood" in the dining room defrosting.) Our home was spotless. Always. Messy, maybe, from us kids, but always clean.

Dinner at 5:00 on the dot; bed at nine; every summer at Paradise Falls in the Poconos; knitting or board games (but mostly knitting!) Life was always good; thanks, Mom. We love you. Always.

JEWISH MISSIONARY DEAD

Paul I. Morentz Called Home After Brief Illness

IN THE death of the Rev. Paul I. Morentz, on July 16, the Church has sustained an almost irreparable loss. A deeply consecrated Christian, an Old Testament scholar of high order, a preacher of no mean gifts, an authority on the Jew and the Christian approach to the Jew, and, pre-eminently, a missionary to God's ancient people, Pastor Morentz had made a place for himself in the affection and work of the Church, which it will be most difficult to fill. He was loved, respected, and trusted by all who knew him—by Gentile and Jewish Christian alike.

He was born of Jewish parents in Bessarabia, January 1, 1888. As a boy of thirteen he came to America. Five years later, attracted by the Rev. John Legum's Mission to the Jews, located in Pittsburgh, he became interested in Christianity, and August 25, 1907, was baptized a Christian. He had been attending Thiel College before his baptism, and immediately afterward entered the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Chicago, from which he was graduated in 1910. A month later he was ordained to the Lutheran ministry, in the Pittsburgh Synod. For a year he traveled extensively in the interest of Jewish missions, his tours taking him as far as Duluth, Minn. A call to Reynoldsville, Pa., was accepted; and this was later followed by pastoral work in Struthers and Conneaut, Ohio.

In 1918 he was called to Philadelphia, Pa., to be a missionary to the Jews. For twenty years he labored faithfully in this field, extending his efforts to include the entire territory of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania and the East Pennsylvania Synod, and often reaching out far beyond the bounds of these two synodical bodies. While awakening the Church to its Jewish mission task and himself laboring, sometimes beyond his strength, in the task of interpreting Christ to the Jew and of bringing the Jew to Christ, he found time to engage in preaching, lecturing, teaching in a leadership training school, addressing summer schools and assemblies, writing books and tracts and almost numberless articles, and counseling with thousands of Christians and Jews. The scope of his work was tremendously broad, and his influence was proportionately extended.

July 21, 1920, he married Louise C. Stahl, formerly a missionary in Persia, and at the time of the marriage his faithful assistant in the Messiah Hebrew Lutheran Mission. The happy union was blessed with three sons: Paul Ernest, John Daniel, and James William. Wife and sons survive him.

July 16, after a twelve-day illness from a heart disease, Paul Morentz was called to his other home, in the kingdom of his Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, Whose he was, and Whom he had so devotedly and faithfully served, after the light came.

PAUL J. HORN.

REV. PAUL I. MORENTZ

UNSWERVING IN FAITH

By Z. A. M. Corbe for the Board of American Missions

AFTER an association with Missionary Morentz of more than forty years it is difficult to adjust myself to the fact that he has been called home and that the task to which he so bravely gave himself is unfinished.

It seems only yesterday that as pastor of the seminary church I welcomed Brother Morentz as a young theological student who had been brought to the church by his spiritual father, the Rev. John Legum, D.D., also a theological student at that time. Their faithful attendance at the services and their interest in soul winning was ever an inspiration. Shortly after my duties had called me to Philadelphia I had the joy of welcoming my friend to that city, where he had come to enter upon what was to be his life work. Others will tell of these years of self-sacrifice but only the celestial records will reveal the souls that were reached through his unwavering testimony to the lost sheep of the House of Israel.

His ability as a teacher was recognized throughout the Church. Shortly before his illness he had completed a group of lectures for the Board of American Missions' School for Missionary Pastors and he was looking forward with happy anticipation to these hours with his fellow missionaries. His public presentations of the cause so near to his heart were unique but always effective.

From the time I met Pastor Morentz in the seminary and throughout all the two score years of our associations he consistently took the attitude, "If God be for us, who can be against us." As a result he was never awayed by the unexpected developments in society and the world, and his judgments were sane and consistently Christian. The Board has lost a most valuable laborer.

INTERPRETER OF SCRIPTURE

By Charles P. Wiles, Editor of Sunday School Literature

I HAVE on my desk the schedule of dates the Rev. Paul I. Morentz left with me when he started on a brief vacation about ten days ago. It reads: Paradise Falls, July 11-30; Massanetta Springs Summer School, August 2-5; Stone Harbor Summer School, August 8-12. It was pretty definitely known within two days after he left my office that this schedule would be radically changed. Now we know that no part of it was fulfilled. He is not with us, for God has taken him.

In the spring of 1930 he and I met on a train that was to take us to the annual convention of the Susquehanna Synod. It was on that trip I suggested to him our earnest desire that he prepare the department in "The Lesson Commentary" then called "Oriental Side-Lights," but which at his suggestion was changed to "Helps from Hebrew Sources."

He brought to this new work an interest and enthusiasm that never waned. By birth, training, sympathy and scholarship he put into this department of "The Lesson Commentary" rich and carefully prepared material. He seemed eager to get at the task of preparing copy for the succeeding year. In several volumes he prepared sections of lessons in their entirety. He was in the midst of the preparation of seven lessons on the Sermon on the Mount, in which he was taking the keenest interest, when his earthly labors closed.

We need not be surprised that he was proficient in the Bible, for he was a careful student of that Book. Being a sincere Christian he brought to his task faithful labor, and the fruits of his toil have been abundant. "The Lesson Commentary" for 1939 will carry the concluding results of his gifted mind and heart for those who have been following these lessons. His Christian zeal and his high ideals will remain with us when his words are forgotten.

[Pastor Morentz was taken ill at Paradise Falls whether he had gone to fulfill a preaching engagement. The heart attack began twenty-four hours after his arrival and he was brought to the Lankenau Hospital in Philadelphia, where death came twelve days later. Ed.]

PAUL I. MORENTZ

ON THE eighth floor of the Muhlenberg Building in Philadelphia is an office through which the morning sun streams, on the door of which an approaching visitor would see

JEWISH MISSION

PAUL I. MORENTZ

A caller on entering the room from the hall would come first to a desk surmounted by a row of reference books. Then at a table within range of the light from the windows he would meet Mr. Morentz;—Pastor Morentz, most of his clerical brethren called him. Quite recently it was to the interest of the readers of THE LUTHERAN that he should be consulted about the sponsorship and practical merit of a plan proposed to solve problems incident to anti-Semitism. At least once a year,—that is, prior to the eighteenth Sunday after Trinity, we met to arrange for informative articles in THE LUTHERAN that would call attention to "Jewish Mission Sunday."

Thinking back through the years during which we have had editorial conferences with him, two conclusions come prominently to mind as one recalls his comments and convictions.

The first may seem paradoxical: it is that his faith in Jesus Christ was in absolute command of his thinking and living, yet he never ceased to be a Jew. He owed his conversion to a Jew, the late John Legum of Pittsburgh. To him the Old Testament was of true canonical value because it pointed toward Jesus of Nazareth in its prophecies and because it revealed the mission which was Israel's and which Israel fulfilled, namely, to provide and identify Jesus the Messiah. He had thus a basis for a kind of pride in being a Jew. Almost like Paul he could say, "Are they Hebrews? So am I."

But this relationship to the kinship after the flesh or to the prophetic stage of God's plan of redemption was not given precedence over fellowship in Christ. He believed that the Jew when born again was a Christian, obligated on the one side to perform all the duties that obedience to our Saviour involves and on the other entitled by faith in Him to full membership in the congregation, and to all the privileges of expressing our common life in Christ which are bestowed by the Holy Spirit upon the company of believers. He thought congregations should invite people not belonging to church to come to their services, Jews and Gentiles alike. He once said, "How can a church expect from a lone Jewish missionary what they in their entirety claim they cannot do,—persuade some family living in their neighborhood to come within the sound of the Gospel?"

Consistently with the principle that Jews and non-Jews need alike the one Mediator's intercession with God, he did not ask for his kinsfolk after the flesh more than the rights and privileges granted to others. Anti-Semitism in his judgment was not only cruel and anti-Christian: it was futile and irrational. On the other hand, he was not convinced of the wisdom of organizing in the name of tolerance a Jewish minority that could be made the tool of political majorities.

His brief final illness was of such a character as to make the reception of any last message from him impossible. THE LUTHERAN is on its own in suggesting that when Jewish Mission Sunday arrives on the sixteenth of next October congregations can be reminded with propriety of the sacrifices and hopes of Paul I. Morentz.

 This lowly-beginnings Chicken Coop Cottage passed from one excellent PF leader Erwin Mayer to another - Arthur Lieberknight who held various posts including Manager from 1946 - 1950. Art remembers years 1936 - 1961

A 2001 interview with Arthur revealed some early memories:

- Family rentals at Teter, Monson homes before buying
- Dr Cressman's weekly religion classes
- His early leadership roles as Boad President, Secretary and Manager
- His mother-in-law's (Margareta Meyer) crocheted pieces with "Paradise Falls" interwoven that were sold in the Gift Shop. He donated one to be displayed in lounge. See it now in Tea Room*
- His love of nature and leading of many P.F. nature hikes

Carolyn Pohl, member and her sisters Jerry Cramer and Demis Heydt are rich resources for the history of P.F. They have roots as children of long-time caretaker Harold Heydt and have lived in the homes of pre-PF dwellings (ie Olson Cottage, Gate Lodge, and Abend Ruhe - Christ Cottage). And, living here year round, they have stories about many people and buildings with so many connections, I've opted to insert their stories on the various "Building" and "Cottager" pages rather than gather them in one place. Much gratitude goes to these ladies for sharing their memories!

Heydt Memories of the #91 Olson Cottage

Grandma and Grandpa Heydt welcomed Harold and Hilda Heydt into their farmhouse likely built around 1850. The girls were too tiny to remember layout. Jerry Cramer born 1928 was embarrassed to learn that when the State road was being widened the year she was two (1930), road workers brought her into the farmhouse because she had gotten hot and stripped off her clothing while watching them!

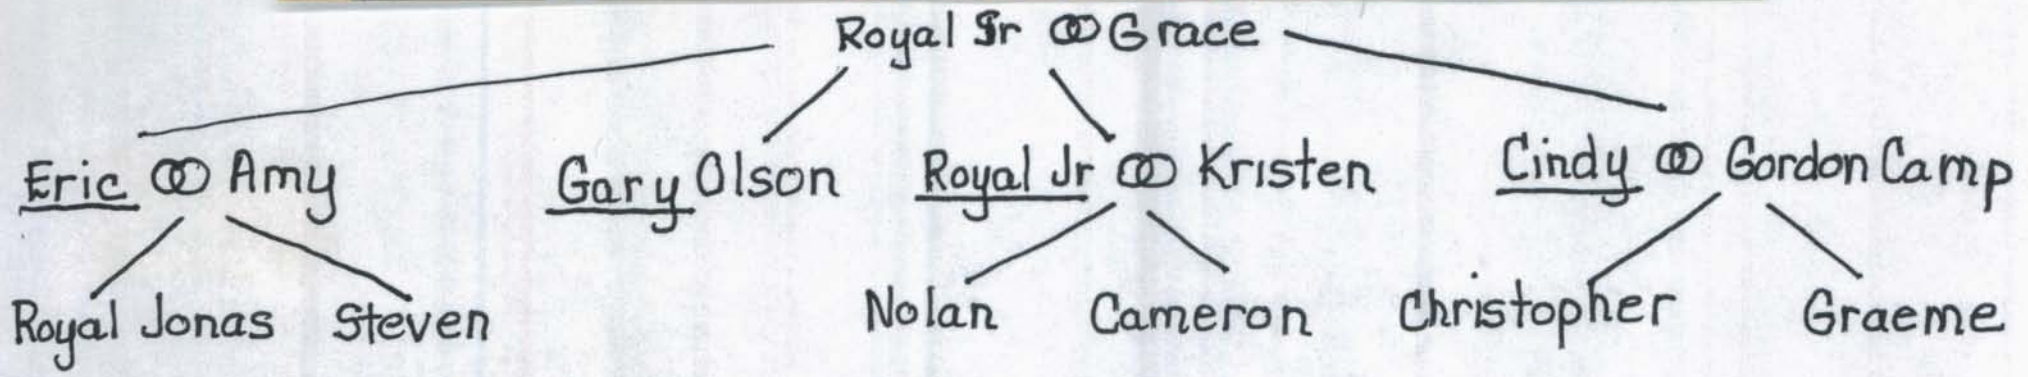

Harold saved his aging father from losing the house by buying it and moving parents into cement house next door. When P.F. wanted the house & barn property Harold sold it, but his family may have stayed in the house until they moved as caretaking family into Gate Lodge

I enclose some excerpts from the July 1938 issue of the Lutheran in case you do not have these in the Paradise Falls file.

Pastor Paul Morentz had come to the mountains to preach that Sunday morning. That afternoon he was stricken and did not recover. I had gone to that service with my parents and elder brother. I do recall vividly one thing.

My parents, but especially my father, liked to sit in those three rows on the far right side. Especially my father sweated profusely and my parents sported handheld fans. Pastor Morentz who was well known and well liked began his sermon with a jovial look to my father and said: "If the Dittmers will join the rest of us in the middle of the synagogue, we can begin."

Like so many houses, the Morentz cottage faced the main road and my uncle August built that concrete slab with embedded small stone, which read Morentz. I was especially drawn to the eldest son Paul. One summer he collected the admission fees at the automobile bridge for entrance to the Falls, 15¢ for adults and 10¢ for children. He had that kiosk, which is now at the Hedricks cottage, and this sported the sign: "Through these portals pass the mightiest minds of science". One day in particular, we were discussing Ohm's law. I guess I was 10 years of age. I raised the question why went a ignited a light bulb did the voltage in the electrical system not be reduced by Ohm's law. Paul Morentz replied: "It does not because there is an infinite amount of electricity in the system".

The Morentz's had to my knowledge, the first pop-up toaster in the Paradise Falls and I would love to eat bread there just so I could use the toaster.

Well these are some little thoughts which I have had and may be buried in the archives.

Our best to you

SOCIAL HALL

Some years ago questions were raised about the stability of the Social Hall's foundation. Thoughts at that time were not to make repairs, but to use the building as long as possible, then construct an all-purpose replacement facility. In the meantime, the building has deteriorated and now needs staining, painting, and a new roof.

Recent reviews of the foundation show that it is sound. Any settlement that occurred, most likely, took place many years ago. The building will last many years if it is maintained. A new roof could be as much as $10,000. Some of the work will be done by our caretaker.

Before committing funds to repair Social Hall, information was obtained about constructing a replacement all-purpose building. Some Property Committee members met with Lee Shoesmith, a local contractor, who constructed the new 8,400 square foot all-purpose metal addition at the Paradise Valley Assembly of God. Church members and friends did a lot of the work. Their hope was to keep costs under $500,000 but may actually be closer to $600,000. It is one example of the least expensive types of construction and is close enough to visit.

Mr. Shoesmith offered a "ballpark" figure of $25,000 to raze Social Hall and remove the rubble. He estimates a comprehensive construction cost of $100 per square foot for a Social Hall replacement. Space presently used in Social Hall includes:

Main Floor --- church services, meetings, etc.	3,000 sq. ft.
Lower level --- pastors apartment.	1,100 sq. ft.
Porch and closet --- arts and crafts	400 sq. ft.
Storage ---	1,500 sq. ft.
	6,000 sq. ft.

6,000 sq. ft. X $100 per sq. ft. = $600,000

The Property Committee believes it is in the best interests of PFLA to reshingle the roof, stain and paint, and make other repairs to maintain the structural integrity, safety, and usefulness of Social Hall.
